What should I bring with me?

The Boilerhouse is a modern office building and our classroom-based courses are held in our conference room. We recommend that you wear comfortable clothing; we don't have a dress code as such and our courses are quite informal so you will be fine in (smart) casual clothing.

We have wifi in the building so you may wish to bring a laptop/tablet on which to follow the course presentations, take notes, or catch up on emails during breaks.

Smoking/Vaping

IOM3 operates a no smoking/vaping policy which means that smoking and vaping are not permitted anywhere on the premises. If you wish to smoke or vape, you should go off the premises.

Health and Safety

All visitors are required to sign in at reception on arrival and sign out on departure. Whilst on the premises you are required to behave in a safe, courteous and orderly fashion, and conform to the behaviour expected of all users of the Institute's buildings. This is so that you do not endanger the health and safety of yourself or others. There are trained first-aiders on the premises and should you require their assistance, please ask a member of staff.

We conform to the Health and Safety At Work Act 1974. We take our responsibility for our delegates seriously and aim to create an accident-free environment.

Is there anything else I should know?

There are a few things that we have to mention:

- The Institute does not accept responsibility for your property and belongings during the course and cannot be held liable for their loss or damage on or off site.
- We reserve the right to make minor changes to the programme as we deem necessary and will provide you with as much notice as we can if we need to make changes to the dates or format of the course.
